

Flight of Doomed Dirigible Pictured by Photographs Taken During Its Previous Voyages

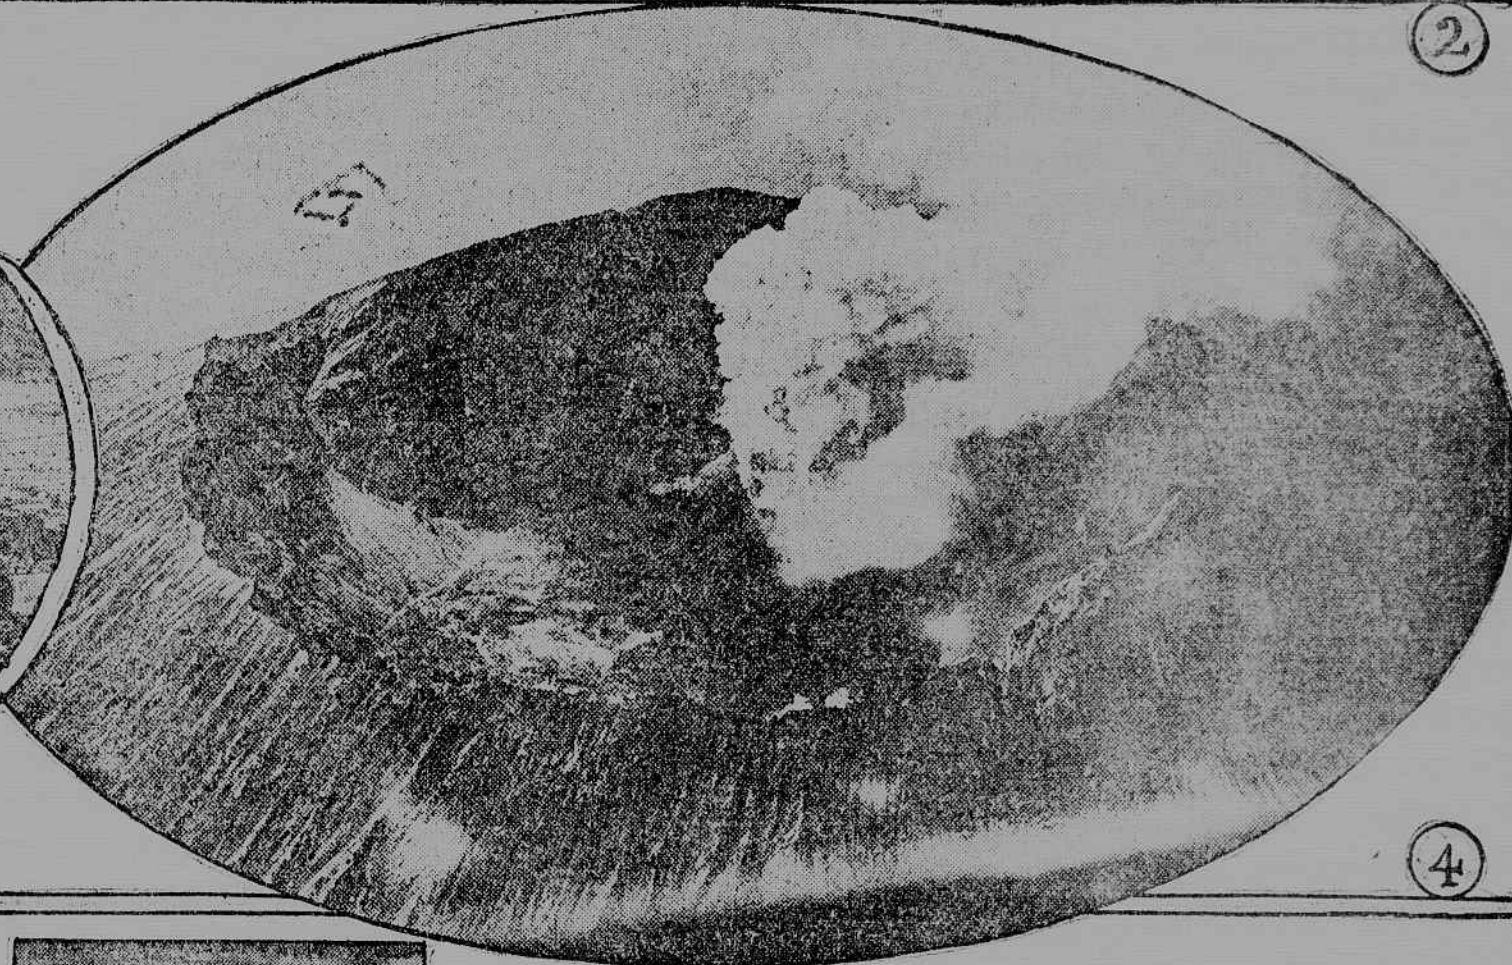

①

②

③

④

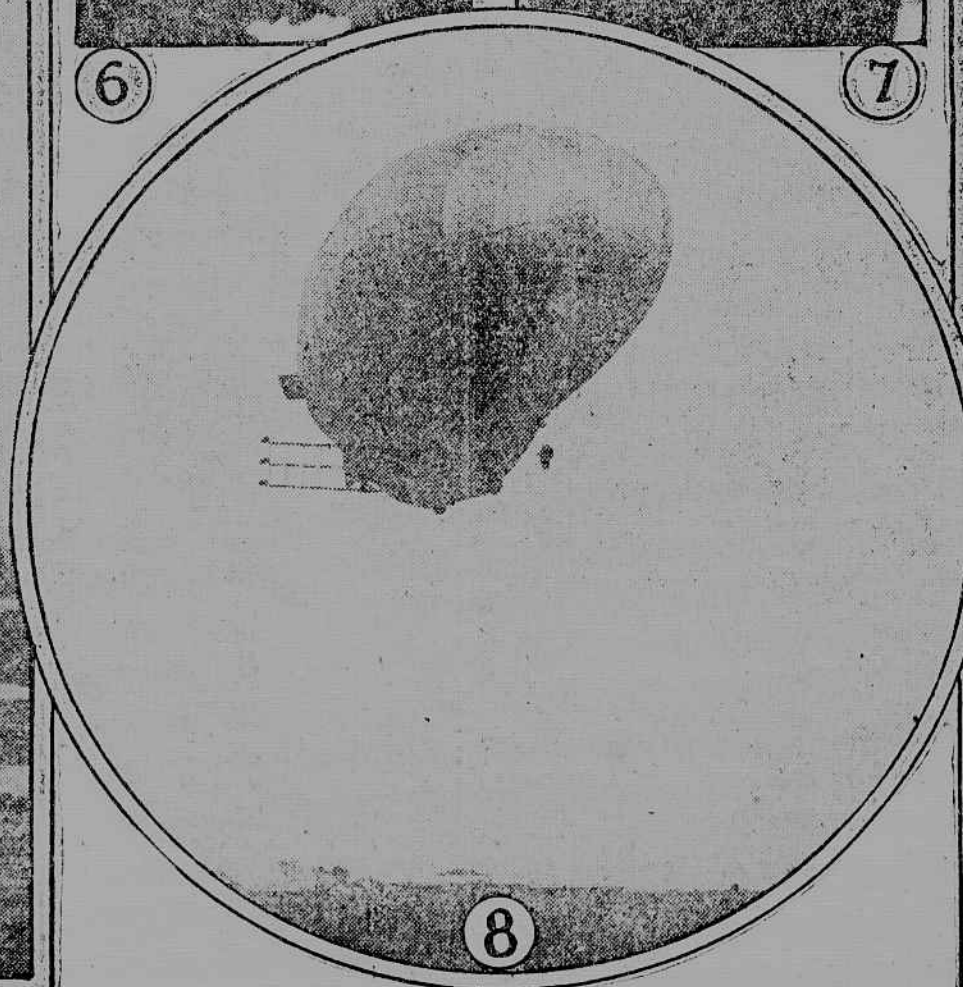

⑤

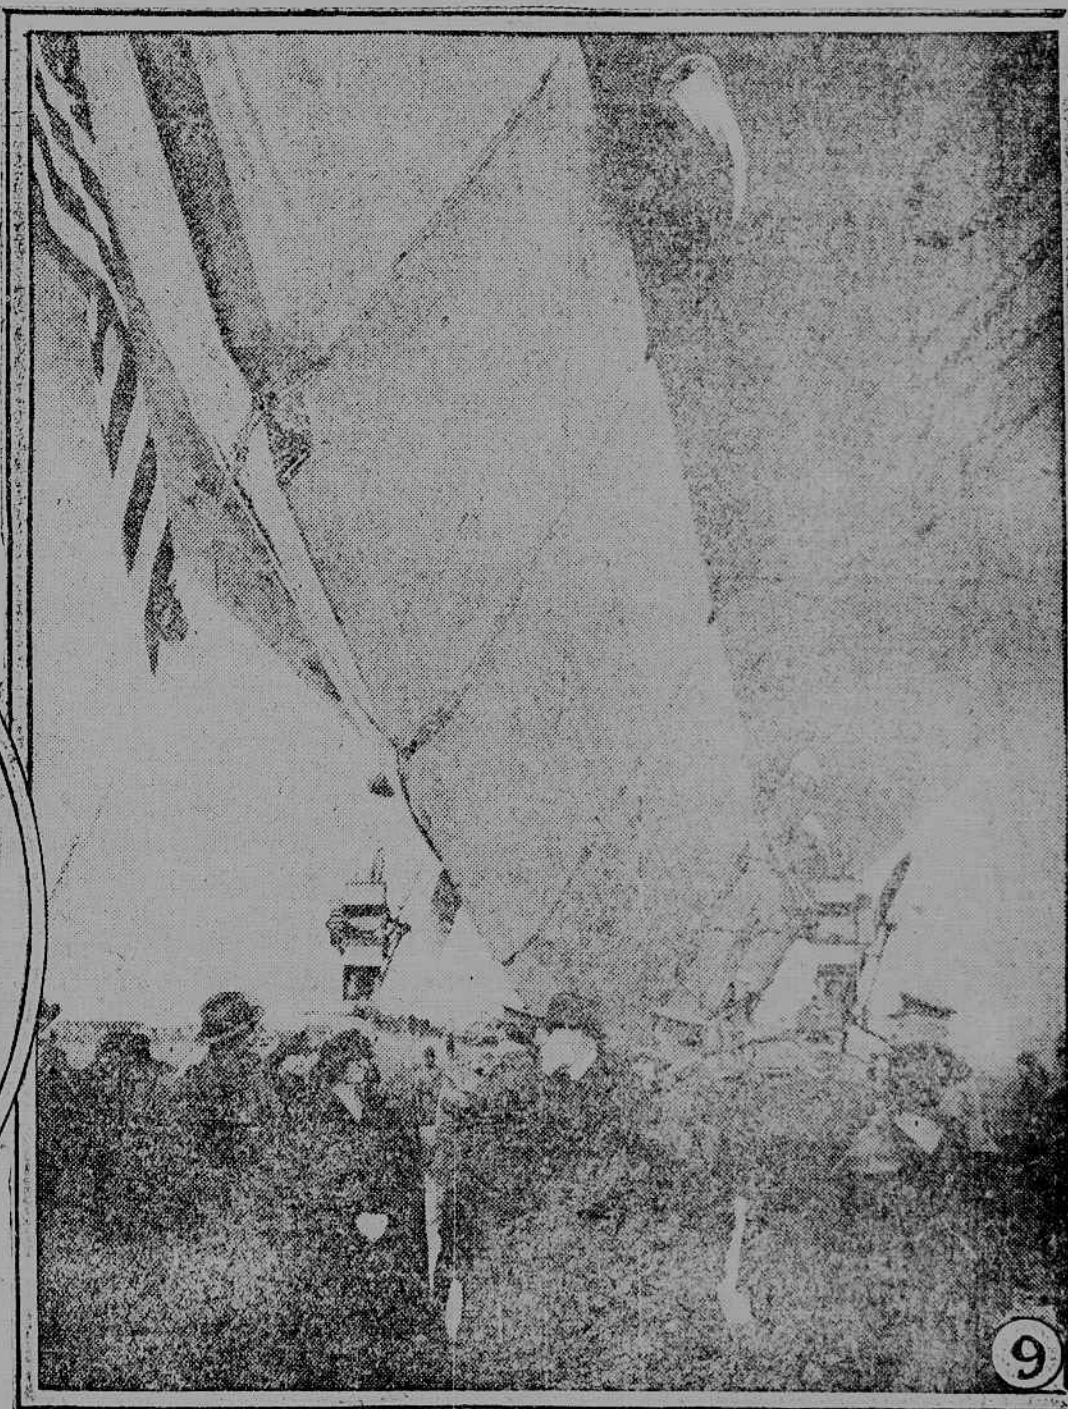

⑥

⑦

⑧

⑨

(1) Snapshot of the Roma and crew taken just before its flight from Rome to Naples. Lieutenant Walter J. Reed, of Scarsdale, N. Y., who escaped when the Roma burned, yesterday, and Captain Dale Mabry, commander of the craft, who lost his life, are at the left of the group shown.

(2) A close-up of the same occasion taken just before the start.

(3) View of the Vatican taken from the airship as it circled over the "Eternal City."

(4) Striking photograph of Mt. Vesuvius in eruption, also snapped from the Roma.

(5 and 9) Views of the flight party, including former Ambassador Johnson and his guests.

(6) Umberto Nobile, constructor of the Roma.

(7) Signor Uselli, who designed the airship.

(8) How the Roma appeared in the air as shown by a photograph taken while she was on one of her trial trips.